Waivers clear path for opening of road into Jordan Bowl

By ALISON ALOISIO

Sunday River Ski Resort's Jordan Bowl Access Road will likely open as planned -- despite the fact it does not meet town standards -- thanks to a conditional waiver granted last week by the Newry Planning Board.

The board will, however, revisit the road issue next spring, prompted by code enforcement officer Norm Putnam's concerns about its safety.

The 3.6-mile private road is an extension of the Monkey Brook Road, and leads to the resort's new Jordan Grand Hotel. The hotel is scheduled to open in mid-December.

The Jordan road was paved in September. But there are sections of the road where the crown does not meet town standards. In some places, according to the skiway, the crowning was done by design, to divert rainwater from fill slopes along the road and minimize the potential for erosion. The Department of Environmental Protection also asked the resort to tilt the road with erosion control in mind, according to the skiway.

But the noncomplying road created a problem for Sunday River. Town ordinance requires the code enforcement officer sign a certificate of compliance, in this case indicating that town road standards have been met, before any units at the hotel may be sold.

Sunday River came to the board last week to request a waiver of the crown requirements, maintaining the crown conditions do not compromise the safety of the road.

That wasn't how Putnam saw it. He was worried the crown might contribute to accidents under rainy or snowy conditions.

He said he observed that during a rainstorm, water was running down the steep road in some places, rather than off to the side -- increasing the potential, he said, for slippery areas. The road grade varies from 6 to 12 percent.

Putnam told Sunday River and general contractor A.J. Coleman Co. several weeks ago that he would be satisfied with the road's condition if two Maine-registered civil engineers with highway design experience would inspect it, and attest to its safety in letters bearing their professional stamps.

Sunday River produced one such letter at the meeting, stamped by engineer Peter Dalfonso of Sebago Technics.

Putnam said he was "very disappointed. I asked for two, because

LURC staff recommends board approve Albany bingo hall plan

• Commissioners expected to vote next week

LURC reasoning:

By ALISON ALOISIO

The staff of the Land Use Regulation Commission issued a recommendation Monday to approve the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe's application to build a high stakes bingo hall in Albany.

In making their recommendation, the staff focused on the three statutory requirements for rezoning: consistency with LURC's comprehensive land use plan, demonstrated community need, and no undue adverse impact.

Comprehensive land use plan

The recommendation uses three different perspectives, all drawn from language in the comprehensive plan, to support the case for approval.

The plan calls for new development proposals to be located in appropriate areas, as judged from LURC's jurisdiction-wide perspective. There are five criteria for assessing the appropriateness of a location: 1) proximity to organized towns and population centers; 2) compatibility of natural resources with development; 3) demonstrated demand for development; 4) accessibility by major routes; and 5) availability of infrastructure.

With those criteria in mind, the recommendation report makes the following points: Albany has the fastest growth rate of LURC's jurisdiction, growing by 47 percent between 1970 and 1990; the township is near other organized towns with multiple

Local reaction:

By ALISON ALOISIO

"They didn't hear a word we had to say. Not one word."

That was the reaction of bingo hall opponent Doty Duddy to the news that the LURC staff will recommend in favor of the proposed Passamaquoddy project.

Duddy and many other Albany residents testified at a hearing in August against the plan for the 2,000-seat, high stakes hall, to be built on an 18-acre land parcel off Route 5.

They argued that the facility would adversely affect their rural way of life. More specifically, they worried about the impact of traffic, noise and the potential risk of placing the hall's septic system in an area that is prone to flooding.

But in recommending both a zoning change for the site and the granting of a permit for the project, the LURC report outlined point-by-point why the staff believes those concerns have been satisfied by the tribe's proposal.

In addition, the "community need" of the Passamaquoddy also appeared to be a key consideration of the staff.

The commission is scheduled to consider the recommendation at a Nov. 20 meeting, to be held in Rockland.

Attorney Jeff Rosenblatt has represented the Albany Improvement Association in opposing the project.

Otten gets to California via Wall St.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Following a successful $260 million offering on the New York Stock Exchange last week, the American Skiing Company was due to close Wednesday on the $288 million purchase of Steamboat resort in Colorado and Heavenly resort in California.

The purchases will make the Newry-based ASC the largest ski resort operating company in North America in terms of skier visits, and one of the largest such companies in the world.

Following Thursday's initial stock offering, the price of ASC stock fell more than a dollar. It opened Thursday at $18 a share and by midday Wednesday was trading at approximately 16 1/2.

That fall, however, did not affect the success of the initial public offering, since all of the nearly 15 million shares of ASC stock had been subscribed at $18 by the syndicate of banks and investment firms underwriting the IPO.

ASC was one of six companies making NYSE IPOs last week. Over the past two weeks a number of other companies had pulled back from planned IPOs, due to the uncertain state of the stock market following the steep fall of Oct. 27.

Sunday River, however, had little choice but to go ahead with the offering, since the money was needed to finance the Steamboat and Heavenly purchases.

ASC "was the largest IPO since we've had this period of market turbulence," said Stephen Hirshon, vice president of Maine Securities Corp. in Portland.

Hirshon characterized the stock's initial reception as "lukewarm."

The offerings' negatives, he said, included concerns over the sea-

A bonus year after all at Sunday River

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Yes, Virginia, there will be a bonus, and just in time for Christmas shopping season.

Sunday River employees learned last week that the ski resort does plan to pay bonuses this year.

In a letter included with last week's paycheck, Les Otten, chief executive officer of the American Skiing Company, told them to expect the bonuses in their next (today's) pay envelope.

Traditionally, Sunday River bonuses have been paid in early August, and would typically range from the equivalent of one to three weeks' pay for full-time, year-round employees.

But when bonus day came along this year, employees found only their normal week's pay, and no mention of the missing bonus.

The resort soon had a serious morale problem on its hands, with many employees, especially long-term ones, angered and disappointed at the apparent bonus decision and the way it had been communicated.

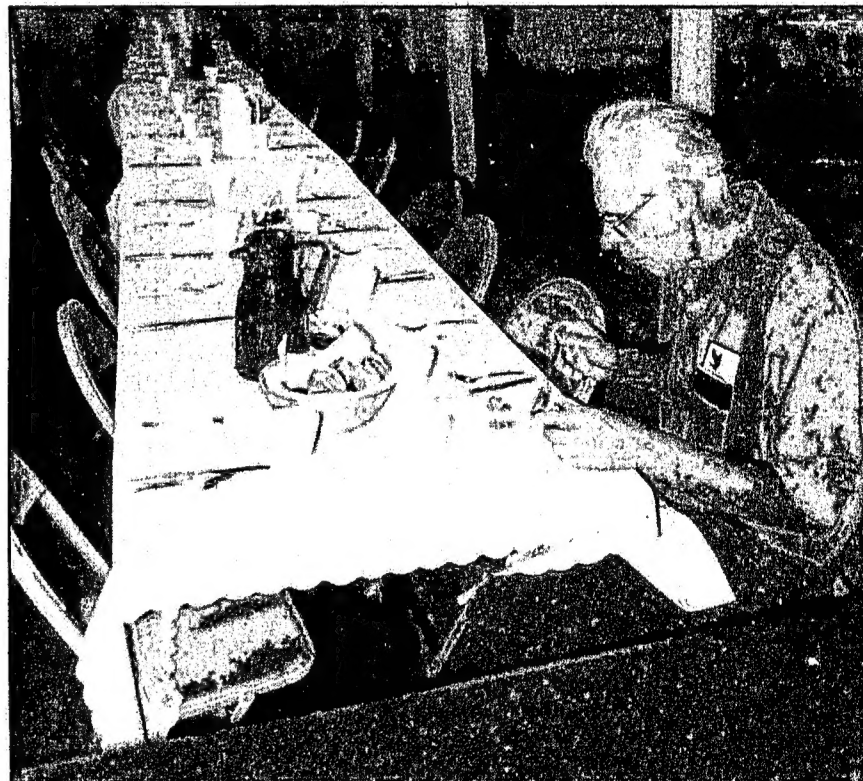

But all was not as it seemed. By the following week The Citizen was able to report that senior ASC officials were denying any bonus decision had been made.

But those same officials were in the middle of the company's first public stock offering, which placed them under severe legal restrictions on what they could say publicly about the company's plans or

LOCKE MILLS DEDICATION—Townfolk and members of the Jackson-Silver American Legion Post had a special mission as they gathered on the town common Tuesday. They were there not only to celebrate Veterans Day, but to dedicate a new memorial to all the men and women from Greenwood who had served in our country's armed forces during times of conflict. State Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel), Post Commander Delma McMillin (shown here) and Greenwood town manager Lloyd DeCato addressed those assembled. "We dedicate this monument to those who gave their lives to keep this country free," Barth said. The new monument, of field stones and granite, was constructed by Gordon, Owen and Wallace Morgan, all sons of Roy Morgan, who constructed the old monument it replaces. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Public comment sought for Bethel's next cable contract

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The rates won't be on the table, but Bethel residents with other concerns about their cable TV service -- or lack of said service -- will have a chance Monday to make their feelings known to town officials.

Input from the meeting will be used as the town begins negotiations with the cable company on the next 10-year contract.

The current contract does not expire for almost two years, until June 30, 1999, but the negotiations are expected to be lengthy.

They are also expected to be amicable. There has been little by way of complaints about the local cable provider, according to town manager Phil Tarr and selectmen's chair Dutch Dresser.

But local officials still hope to extract a bit better deal from the company this time around -- in the form of coverage for a greater number of residences and perhaps a larger financial contribution to the town from the company.

They also hope to lock into the contract Frontiervision's support for the Bethel Data Loop. Since 1994 the company has provided the wiring that makes up the electronic backbone of the computer network that connects local schools and the Bethel town office to the Internet.

That support has been provided on a voluntary basis and without cost to the town or school system.

"Those people have been very good to us as a community," said Dresser, who was also the driving force behind the Bethel Datification project.

Expanded service

One topic certain to come up during the negotiations will be the pace at which Frontiervision extends cable service to areas of town that do not yet have it.

Company representative Steve Newkirk has provided the town with a map showing the company's current plans for expanding service here.

That map shows only one exten-

WHAT'S NEXT FOR THE WOODS

To the Editor:

Tuesday's vote on Question 1 clearly showed that the governor's Forest Compact was not acceptable to Maine voters. So what happens now?

Clearly the 53 percent no vote is deeply divided and will be unable to craft an alternative. Will this mean a return to the status quo? I hope not. The no votes are evenly split between those who feel the Compact went too far and those who feel it doesn't go far enough. These two groups will never agree on a plan for Maine's forests. This impasse leaves it squarely up to the legislature and the governor. Will they have the collective will to make positive changes that will protect private property rights as well as insure the sustainability of the forests? I believe they can and must, and I will be greatly disappointed if they don't. So what should they do?

First, the current forest practices act must be fully funded so we can see if it works or not. If it doesn't do the job then we'll know how to adjust or tinker with it to make it work. Full funding means taking the state's surplus to hire additional foresters. These professionals will provide the education that many landowners and loggers need as well as providing for the enforcement of current law.

Second, two parts of the Compact, the audit and the right to practice forestry, should be immediately enacted. The audit, agreed to by the large landowners, has been said by the governor to be the "crown jewel" of the Compact. Since it has been agreed to voluntarily, let's implement it now. The audit will provide the kind of objective and quantitative data about the health of the forest that it is needed to determine true sustainability. The right to practice forestry was what small landowners wanted to see in the Compact. Let us enact that now and acknowledge that forestry is an integral part of the Maine economy and culture and that landowners have the right to practice good forestry on their own land. Having a definition of forestry in statute will help towns craft sensible ordinances according to acceptable and agreed upon standards.

Finally, let's let the Maine Council on Forest Sustainability finish what they were charged to do before they were overtaken by the rush to produce the Compact. Let them make recommendations that will ensure forest sustainability. Let's let scientific data fuel the debate, not the emotional rhetoric, misleading ads, charges and counter charges that were so prevalent in the weeks leading up to the vote. The Maine forest has been here for the last 10,000 years and will be here long after we are gone if we give it the chance to grow. Whether you like it or not, we live in a managed world. No place on earth is free from mankind's influence. What we need to learn is the best way to manage our forests for the sustainability that will provide for a healthy forest we can pass on from generation to generation. I look forward to the debate.

ATTEND THE CABLE MEETING

To the Editor:

Frontiervision and the Town of Bethel are now entering negotiations for the town's second cable service contract. One public hearing has already been held, attended by very few citizens. We few had enough to say that the selectmen decided to set another public hearing on Monday, Nov. 27, at 6 p.m. at Crescent Park School. Please attend if you possibly can. As an alternative, the board has asked for written input prior to that meeting. The contract negotiation has many points to be resolved: some old, some new.

As a bit of information: The contract under which Frontiervision now delivers service to Bethel is the town's first such venture. That contract was drawn up with a previous cable company which sold to another which sold to Frontiervision. At the time, both sides of the negotiation worked as sincerely as they could with the information they had. It was a tremendous step into the world of communications at the time.

To anyone who remembers the pre-cable days, there is a certain amount of humor. Imagine running around the house trying to find a place your TV will pick up a show on CBS if the only major network you get is either NBC or ABC? (Of course your next door neighbor might have a different combination of the two.) And Public Television? I only saw it once in over 25 years -- by the accident that some project caused the set to be moved to a different wall in the same room -- but then I lost the networks.

It is still like that in many neighborhoods. Some of The Citizen's readers are still without cable -- which I knew, but was told often during election day. That is one large reason for this letter. If you live in Bethel, and have any interest in cable television service in the next 10 years, Monday night is your opportunity to appear and participate in making your wants and interests known.

FOOD DRIVE THANKS

To the Editor:

Forestdale School in Woodstock would like to say a big thank you to all the surrounding communities for their support in its recent food drive. On Friday, Oct. 31, the students went into the communities to collect non-perishable food items. This food drive gives us a very good start toward making our Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets. Of the homes we were able to visit, the vast majority were very willing to give. We appreciate everyone's donations very much.

BUT NOT FOR LONG?--For a time at last week's Newry Planning Board meeting, it appeared that this sign on the Jordan Bowl Access Road might become a semi-permanent fixture. But a conditional waiver approved by the board will probably allow the road to open as scheduled -- in time for the opening of the Jordan Grand Hotel.

COMMUNITY CONFERENCE IS FRIDAY

To the Editor:

The Planning Committee for Community Conference 97 is inviting folks from the SAD44 region to an exciting conference day on Friday, Nov. 14, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. From youth to senior citizen; from many of the 80-plus local organizations; and from the 11 communities in the region, we expect many points of view at this modern version of the traditional New England town meeting.

Community Conference 97 will provide residents of the region with a unique opportunity to discuss important issues and to plan together for our common future, guided by the excellent facilitation skills provided by NTL. Many issues cross the traditional boundaries between towns and organizations and lend themselves to collaborative approaches and solutions.

It is not too late to register for Community Conference 97. You may phone the Adult Education office, 824-2780. There is no registration fee; just bring your lunch. Plan to come for an exciting day, an opportunity to work together as neighbors for our common future.

LURC IGNORES THE FACTS, THE LAWS, THE PEOPLE

To the Editor:

In light of the Land Use Regulation Commission staff's recommendation that the commissioners vote to approve the high stakes bingo facility in Albany Township, it is hard to imagine that anything anyone proposes to do in LURC's jurisdiction from now on could be turned down by the commission's staff. In recommending approval of the 2,000-seat bingo hall, the staff has to waive its rezoning requirements and give preferential treatment to the developers; a financially needy Indian tribe and an extremely wealthy New York investor.

In addition to all of the environmental requirements, LURC's laws provide that all rezoning applicants must demonstrate need for the proposed development in the local community -- without reliance on the applicant's own needs. Rezoning applicants are instructed that evidence of community need is to be shown by letters from planning boards, county and local commissions, local businesses, and area residents. In this case, virtually every resident and Albany business opposed the project. A majority of the Oxford County Commissioners opposed the project. The Bethel Board of Selectmen opposed the project. Instead of listening to the people of the affected area, and instead of following its law, the staff's recommendation focuses on the applicant's "need" for money and on the developers' argument that Bethel needs this development (even if the Bethel community says it doesn't).

LURC's laws also require that new commercial development be adjacent to existing developments of similar scale. The staff waives that requirement, too, again giving the tribe preferential treatment under its law. The staff points out that the Maine Legislature allowed the Passamaquoddy to have one high stakes bingo facility and that the tribe says the Albany land is currently the best location it has available (without getting legislative approval for a site outside LURC's jurisdiction). Unimaginably, the staff recommendation also refers to existing land uses in Albany as including "numerous businesses, manufacturing plants, and commercial activities."

However, the Maine Legislature never said LURC should waive its usual requirements when Indian lands are involved. In fact the Legislature has consistently rejected the tribe's efforts to obtain preferential status under LURC's laws. When the Legislature gave the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy Tribes permission to each have a high stakes bingo facility, the Legislature contemplated that those facilities would be on their reservations. The only other location subsequently considered by the Legislature was Calais -- outside of LURC's jurisdiction.

LURC's staff seeks to pass off this massive development as just another "bingo hall." To do so, the staff must ignore the facts in the case, ignore the tribe's current expansion efforts, ignore its own legal requirements, and ignore the united voice of the people of Albany and Bethel.

On previous occasions the commissioners have rejected its staff's recommendations. One such case, "Spencer Lake," was where the commission staff recommended approval of a large boat launch facility for motor boats on a quiet lake already serviced by a small boat launch that was adequate for the existing low-intensity boating uses. In rejecting the staff's recommendation, the commissioners held that the large boat launch proposal did not meet the special exception criteria since it could not be buffered from other uses and resources in the area with which it would be incompatible. The commission pointed out that the proposed facility would have an undue adverse impact on non-intensive recreational uses of the area, and would result in uncontrollable unauthorized camping, late-night noise, and littering thereby disturbing the existing natural and cultural resources of the area. As was true in the "Spencer Lake" case, to approve the proposed high stakes bingo hall, the commissioners here must find that the bingo facility can be buffered from other existing inconsistent uses of the West Bethel area including residential use, non-intensive recreational use, and local recreational business uses of the area, such as by local horseback riding stables or hunting, fishing and guide services.

We must hope that when they vote on Nov. 20, the commissioners take seriously its rezoning and special-exception requirements. In doing so it will be treating the Passamaquoddy Tribe fairly and with dignity, and with equal justice under the laws that apply to us all.

A BLATANT ABUSE OF POWER

To the Editor:

The Land Use Regulation Commission staff's recent recommendation that a 2,000-seat bingo hall be approved in Albany Township sent shock waves through this rural community.

That LURC's staff, in a blatant abuse of power, chose to overlook its own legal criteria for rezoning requirements and give preferential treatment to the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe and a wealthy New York investor is unacceptable.

The Town of Bethel opposes this facility as does a majority of the Oxford County Commissioners and the Bethel Selectmen. Residents, visitors and friends of the area all opposed this project and said so eloquently at a public hearing. They flooded LURC with letters stating their opposition. So why were they not heard?

Albany is a quiet, rural community of a booming 400 when the summer folk arrive. Here families live quietly from generation to generation without a store or a post-office. Residents are fiercely independent and have a strong work ethic.

Now they feel betrayed. They demand an answer to the question on everyone's mind. Will this be the Land Use Regulation Commission that sells out their township to gaming, and the State of Maine to the gambling business?

Or will the commissioners finally heed the overwhelming cries of public opposition and carry out their responsibilities as mandated by existing laws of the State of Maine?

On Nov. 20 the commission will make public its vote at a meeting scheduled for 8:30 a.m. at the Tradewinds Motel in Rockland. It is crucial that we have a show of solidarity at this meeting though it is so far away and so early. If you can attend the meeting, or would like to and need transportation, please contact me at 527-2138.

COMMUNITY MUSICAL CANCELED

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Mahoosuc Arts Council, I would like to thank all the people who offered their help and auditioned for the proposed production of "Wonderful Town." Unfortunately, while there was a lot of interest from the community, there were not enough male singers to fill lead roles. Unable to find an all-female production that would accommodate a large cast, we have canceled our plans for this year.

I would like to express my thanks particularly to Burt DeFrees, stage director; Jim Thibodeau, music director; and Faye Hill, accompanist, for the time and effort they put into the audition process, as well as their willingness to support the entire project. The council would be willing to try to stage another musical production next season, if there is enough interest. Comments, suggestions, and programming ideas are always welcome and appreciated and can be made to the Mahoosuc Arts office by calling 824-3575.

MDOT to look at Rt. 232 intersection

WOODSTOCK--The Maine Department of Transportation will have a field review team in Bryant Pond today (Thursday) to evaluate the Route 232/Route 26 intersection. The site is under consideration as a potential project for the next Biennial Transportation Improvement Program. More than 100 locations statewide will be reviewed.

Whitman Library fund is growing

WOODSTOCK--The effort to raise money for the Whitman Memorial Library addition project has yielded about $6,000 so far in cash and pledges, according to town manager Vern Maxfield. If organizers can raise $20,000, it will be matched by a donation from Stephen and Tabitha King. Maxfield said he has also received word from the Kings that in-kind donations will be accepted toward the match.

Grocery store planned

NEWRY--A grocery store is being planned for a 2,000-square-foot area of the Newry Post Office complex. Gordon Brown told the Newry Planning Board last week. Representing developer Ron Smith, Brown said the store would sell such items as beer, wine, soda, chips and Italian sandwiches. No action was required from the board regarding the plan, but a building permit must be obtained. Brown said the store would probably open around Christmas time.

Plans underway to fix road

NEWRY--The Powder Ridge Association will head an effort to get the road into the development repaired, following a meeting among parties with an interest in the road. About 30 people attended the Saturday meeting, facilitated by Newry selectmen. The gathering was prompted by concerns from a separate association of development condominium owners about the deteriorating condition of the Douglass Road. The Glover Development Corp., which developed Powder Ridge and had responsibility for the road's maintenance, has apparently gone out of business. The Powder Ridge Association includes house lot owners, but the organization has been generally inactive. It was estimated that repaving the road would cost between $13,000 and $33,000.

Greenwood may shop for E-911 signs

GREENWOOD--The town of Greenwood may need as many as 102 signs for public and private roads before the E-911 system goes on line in the spring, according to Fire Chief Wayne Hakala. About 75 percent of the signs would be for private roads. The posting of private roads is optional for towns, but Hakala told selectmen last week he thinks it would be a good investment. The cost would be about $3,500 from a sign company, but Hakala said he thought the town might save money by purchasing them through an inmate work program. Selectmen decided to study how to finance the purchases and how to get proper approval of any spending. The public signs will likely be ordered right away.

AIDS charity ball planned

BETHEL--An AIDS charity ball will be held at the Summit Hotel Ballroom at Sunday River on Saturday, Nov. 22, from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight. All proceeds will go to the Peabody House in Portland. The event is being organized by the Telstar High School AIDS Committee, and area high school students are invited to attend. Tickets are available at the door, as well as at the offices of area high schools.

Cemetery expansion gets go-ahead

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen last week authorized town manager Vern Maxfield to proceed with the Lakeside Cemetery expansion, which was approved by voters in September. About 150 new plots are planned. The project will cost about $5,000. Fill is being donated by Gordon Brown.

State police dispatch plan dropped

PARIS--County commissioners concluded last week it is not feasible to have the state police receive 911 calls from Oxford County. The decision followed a meeting with Maj. Jeffrey Harmon of the state police. The commissioners had hoped to avoid building a $500,000 addition to the sheriff's department building to house a new dispatch center. They had proposed routing 911 calls first to the police, and then to Oxford County for dispatch of emergency personnel. The state police are not certain how they would reroute the calls. The commissioners will discuss what step to take next at a budget work session Nov. 19.

Panel backs off on appointments

AUBURN--The state Task Force on Intergovernmental has dropped a proposal to have county sheriffs and treasurers appointed rather than elected, according to director Evan Richert of the State Planning Office. The action came in response to hearings held in 16 counties regarding the panel's draft report on major changes to county government. The report still recommends counties be managed by an administrator appointed by county commissioners, and also maintains the provision that the state would pay counties for mandated services by use of revenue sharing.

Where were you when the earth shook?

AUGUSTA--Mainers who experience the Nov. 5 earthquake are asked to tell their story to the Maine Geological Survey. The "earthquake questionnaire" asks residents about specific information such as the type of soil and building construction and the sorts of noises and movements that were felt during the quake. "It is important to collect personal observations from many people as soon as possible in order to establish the size of the area affected, and the various types of effects people felt in different areas," said state geologist Robert Marvinsky. "The information helps seismologists understand the way that seismic waves travel through the bedrock crust of Maine." The quake registered 5.1 on the Richter Scale and occurred at 9:34 p.m. EDT near Quebec City. To fill out the questionnaire, call MGS at 207-287-2801, or write at 22 State House Station, Augusta, 04333. The e-mail address is nrinc@state.me.us

Probation for Bonny Eagle?

PORTLAND--An organization that accredits high schools will vote next month on whether to place Bonny Eagle High School on probation for failing to meet basic standards. Probation is rare for high schools. Of the more than 700 high schools in New England, 22 are on probation. The board of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges will vote Dec. 3 on the recommendation by its commission on public secondary schools. A team of educators visited the school last year and prepared a report outlining problems. The team found that not enough courses are offered for average students because there are too few teachers. More administrators are needed to supervise and evaluate teachers. And space is too cramped in the school.

State says ad campaign paid off

AUGUSTA--Maine got an 11-to-1 return on investment on the state's spring and summer 1997 advertising campaign to attract visitors from outside the state, according to the Maine Office of Tourism. The $612,000 campaign generated 330,000 additional day and overnight trips to Maine during July, August and September, according to results of an evaluation by a travel research firm. The study estimated those tourists spent $78.8 million during their visit. The research was based on a benchmark mail survey of 1,555 households in July. That level of expenditure equates to $6.98 million in taxes for the state treasury, according to the State Planning Office.

From the Bethel Police log:

Police charge three in school break

At 1:38 a.m. police received a call from Oxford County dispatch requesting an officer go to the Crescent Park School and speak to the custodians regarding three subjects in the building. The officer arrested Justin Buker, 18, of Gilead. The other two subjects were juveniles, and were released to their parents. All were to be charged with burglary.

Thursday, Nov. 6

At 8:45 p.m. a complainant reported that while driving down the Northwest Bethel Road she was followed very closely by a vehicle that was high-beaming her. She tapped her brakes to get the vehicle to back off, but was unsuccessful. She then slowed and pulled over. The vehicle passed her erratically and cut her off, causing her to drive toward the ditch. Police planned to try to contact the registered owner of the vehicle.

Friday, Nov. 7

At 7:05 p.m. the Oxford County Sheriff's Department reported a complaint of a suspicious vehicle in Bryant Pond. The vehicle apparently followed a subject to her residence, and the operator, who was very intoxicated, asked her if she wanted to buy some drugs. There were reportedly two pistols on the dashboard. The vehicle was described as a black/gray Chevy Suburban or GMC Yukon with Massachusetts plates. It was last seen traveling north on Route 26.

At 10:20 p.m. a subject was stopped for an inadequate plate light. A license check showed his license had been suspended since 1993. David C. Teagan, 33, of Hull, Mass. was arrested for operating after suspension. He was taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he was held in lieu of bail.

Saturday, Nov. 8

At 7:55 p.m. the officer heard a loud screeching noise coming from the area of Lover's Lane, apparently coming from tires either spinning or locking up. The officer observed a vehicle pulling "donuts" in a small lot. The subject, a juvenile, was confronted and stated he was sorry. He was issued a summons for unnecessary noise of tires. The subject said he would arrange to rake up the area he damaged. He was told no charges would be pressed if the property owner did not pursue them, and if he fixed the damage.

New position OK'd in Woodstock

Woodstock residents will soon be seeing a new face at the Town Office.

Selectmen last week approved a part-time secretary's position, to be used on an as-needed basis. The position would be in addition to the current secretary position held by Betty Benner.

Town manager Vern Maxfield said an increasing workload is making it hard to keep up. The additional work is generated by a combination of a larger number of residents, more people in and out of the office and more paperwork from the state, he said.

That is especially true when either he or Benner is out of the office, said Maxfield. It used to be that one could cover for the other in an absence. But doing that now, he said, is getting more and more difficult.

And even when both are in the office, extra help is needed during busy times of the year, including tax time, the end of the year, and the first and last days of each month, according to Maxfield.

Selectmen agreed with the town manager, and voted to authorize him to seek a qualified individual and bring the person in to work when needed. Maxfield estimated it would cost the town between $400 and $500 in wages for the rest of this year. The money would come out of the miscellaneous account.

Next year, selectmen will face other personnel adjustments at the office, with the expected retirement of Benner.

Reasoning

businesses, and the region is heavily used for recreation and tourism; development is ongoing; Albany can be accessed by four state routes; Bethel has much of the infrastructure and accommodations needed to serve the development.

Turning to a regional perspective, the report cites additional plan language that encourages orderly growth "within and proximate to" existing, compatibly developed areas -- that is, development "of similar type, use, occupancy, scale and intensity to that being proposed."

It cites comparable entertainment and recreational facilities in the region of a similar or greater scale and intensity, such as Sunday River Ski Resort.

Narrowing the focus further to Albany itself, the recommendation also considers the proposal from a third perspective included in the comprehensive plan -- the provision for "well-planned development in previously undeveloped areas."

Among the criteria such a site must meet: there is a demonstrated need for locating the development not proximate to established developed areas; and there is a demonstrated public demand for, and benefit from, the proposed development in that area.

The recommendation argues that the tribe "has provided information to justify the establishment of a new development center not immediately proximate to similar established development within Albany Township.

"Most of the petitioner's Indian Territory land holdings consist of large tracts of remote forested land, many including undeveloped rivers and ponds, and accessible only by unpaved roads ... The Albany Township property is the petitioner's only parcel close by existing paved roads, utilities and other amenities which typically exist near populated areas."

And regarding public demand, said the report, "the Legislature, by authorizing high stakes bingo as an economic development opportunity for the Passamaquoddy Tribe, has recognized a public demand for and benefit from the proposed activity on Indian Territory."

Community need

The proposal satisfies the needs of two communities: that of the Passamaquoddy, and the one encompassed by the Bethel area, according to the staff.

"A need exists within the Passamaquoddy community for revenue that can be raised from the proposed high stakes bingo facility," states the recommendation.

And, "the proposed facility will meet a need in the Bethel area to supplement the seasonal nature of many of the businesses. (It) will operate during times of the year when the area's restaurant and lodging businesses are under utilized (generating an estimated $3 million a year for the local economy, according to the tribe's proposal)."

Regarding the weight given to the Passamaquoddy's needs, the recommendation says, "In considering zoning petitions, the Commission most commonly considers petitions by individuals or businesses for the purpose of developing a site to provide goods, services, jobs, residential lots, or other economic activities which are in demand in the general vicinity where the proposal is located."

"(The Passamaquoddy petition) requires a different type of analysis, in that the community need is largely that of the Passamaquoddy Tribe which resides primarily outside of the Albany area."

The staff said the Commission does have precedent for evaluating need in a broader context, "as in the application by the State of Maine ... for a solid waste disposal landfill. In that case, the Commission found a statewide need, as opposed to a local need, for the proposed disposal facility."

No undue adverse impact

Regarding the requirement that there be no undue adverse impact on existing uses or resources, the recommendation notes that numerous businesses, outdoor recreational activities, agricultural and forestry activities, and other bingo activities are currently ongoing in the area.

The proposal, according to the staff, also meets requirements to protect the environment through, for example, its sewage disposal plan, which the recommendation says satisfies concerns about locating a wastewater disposal area near a floodplain area. The staff notes the testimony in August of Ed Friel, who lives adjacent to the site, and who said the site does not flood.

Permit provisions

If the commissioners approve the rezoning, they would then consider approval of the actual permit for the project. Among its proposed provisions: the bingo facility would operate up to 27 weekends a year during the period from mid-March through mid-December; approximately 1,000 feet of the Old West Bethel Road, (on which the site is located), and the bridge over the Crooked River will be reconstructed; the intersection of the Old West Bethel Road and Route 5 would be relocated about 500 feet to the south for better sight distance; the applicant would collect additional traffic data for review by MDOT to determine whether a traffic signal is warranted at any intersection.

Reaction

ject. He will attend the meeting, and plans to again address the commission on the issue.

He said Tuesday he is "hopeful" the commissioners will go against the recommendation -- but he's not confident. "Frankly, I'm not optimistic, given Steve Wight's comments," he said.

Rosenblatt was referring to the LURC chairman's remarks in a newspaper report Tuesday. Wight said the staff felt environmental concerns had been met, and that the community need component of LURC's requirements for rezoning was satisfied by the tribe's economic needs.

The site would have to be rezoned from general management to general development for the hall plan to proceed.

Wight was asked if the commission has ever rejected a staff recommendation. "It doesn't happen too often, but once in a while it does," he said.

He declined to give his opinion on the issue itself prior to its consideration by the commission.

Appeal more promising?

If the commission approves the project, Rosenblatt plans a legal appeal -- and he is far more optimistic about that outcome.

"I'm certain it would go in my favor," he said. The staff's reasoning, he said, "is utterly unlawful. It's dishonest. It's disingenuous. It does not comport with the facts that were presented. It does not follow the law."

Rosenblatt said the recommendation gives the Passamaquoddy special treatment based on what the staff sees as the needs of the tribe -- something that he said has never happened before.

Catherine Varney, LURC's senior project analyst, denied Wednesday that the tribe had received special consideration. The recommendation, she said, "was not based on any special treatment whatsoever." Rather, she said, it was based on LURC's review criteria for rezoning.

"Sold out"

Duddy and Evelyn Kimball, who lives across the road from the hall site, had no reservations about sharing their opinions on the report.

"I feel we've been sold out by the state," said Duddy. "It's a clear case of big money, and easy money, winning. LURC is supposed to be our Planning Board. We went to them with our case, and we did a great job. But they didn't hear a word we had to say. Not one word."

The $5 million project would be financed by Snake River Financing, Ltd., whose president and only shareholder is Tamir Sapir of New York City.

Kimball said she was so upset by the recommendation that she found it hard to speak. "It's going to ruin this town," she said. "I could never live across from that mess."

But Kimball also said she would never sell her house and land. "If I can do anything in my power it'll never be sold to the tribe," she said.

Kimball stressed she opposes gambling and the gambling facility, rather than the Passamaquoddy people themselves.

Other reaction

Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel), who opposes the hall, said he believes the LURC staff let emotion over the plight of the Passamaquoddy interfere with their decision. "I'm very disappointed, obviously," he said.

The bingo facility, he said, is not compatible with any existing development in Albany or the Bethel area. "Gambling is not a viable means of economic development," said Barth.

He also disagrees with the recommendation's contention that the Legislature's authorization of high stakes bingo for the Passamaquoddy demonstrates public demand for a facility in Indian territory.

Barth said that was not the Legislature's intent. Rather, he said, legislators had the expectation that such a facility would be placed on reservation land. The Albany site is regarded, at least by the tribe, as trust land.

Barth said he plans to talk to LURC commissioners, in the hope they will reject the staff's recommendation. He said he has no prediction on which way the decision will go.

Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, declined to comment on the recommendation, because the Chamber's board has not taken a formal stand on the bingo issue.

Passamaquoddy governor John Stevens said he was surprised at the recommendation. He had been concerned, he said, about the influence of the community group opposing the hall.

Allen Sockabasin, a former chief of the Passamaquoddy, opposes any gambling operations by the tribe. He said Wednesday there is no great need for money generated by such an operation "because of the amount of money the tribe has been receiving from the federal government."

Sockabasin said he may organize a petition drive among his people to oppose the Albany plan.

sion in Bethel -- for approximately one mile of the Bailey Road, beginning at the intersection with Route 26.

(An extension is also shown in Newry: for four miles, beginning on the Sunday River Road at the intersection of the Sunday River Access Road, and continuing along the Monkey Brook and Jordan Bowl Access roads. And two extensions are shown in Woodstock: for one mile of the Gore Road from North Pond almost to Route 232, and four miles on Route 26, and the Curtis Hill, Perkins Valley and Harbor roads).

The map provided to Bethel officials provides no timetable for the proposed extensions.

Dresser said a recent contract renewal in Bridgton required the company to begin within a year extending service to paved roads in town that were not yet covered, and to have complete coverage along all paved roads within three years.

Such an arrangement, he suggested, might also be appropriate for Bethel.

The selectmen also want to explore the possibility of increasing the amount of money the company contributes to the town. Currently the company contributes 2.5 percent of the gross revenue it generates in Bethel.

Dresser said that a review of contracts in other towns suggests that a contribution of 3 percent appears to be more the norm.

Bethel's 2.5 percent contribution amounted last year to $5,630. Town voters in recent years have allocated half of that amount to the local public access channel, with the balance now lapsing into undesignated fund balance.

"One topic that will probably not receive a great deal of discussion in the upcoming round of negotiations is how much money people will pay for their cable service."

"With deregulation," Dresser said, "that's leaving our hands."

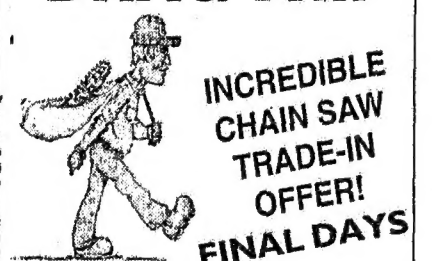

"Monday's meeting will begin at 6 p.m., in the Crescent Park School cafeteria."

At a similar meeting last month only five people turned out. The selectmen are hoping Monday's meeting will generate a broader sampling of local opinion.

Cable contracts in other local towns are to expire a year after Bethel's, according to Frontiers representative Stephen Newkirk.

I wanted to be doubly safe. My job is to look out for the town. If I signed off on it and something happened, I would be liable, and the town would have to protect me and itself," he said.

He was also skeptical, he said, about how thoroughly Dalfonso had inspected the road.

The engineer's letter states that the "majority" of the road meets town standards for crowning -- but makes no mention of actual measurements being taken.

(Contacted later, Dalfonso said he estimated, rather than measured, the tilt of the pavement. "With experience you can see the crown," he said.)

Regarding safety, Dalfonso wrote that he looked at the road while it was "raining significantly," and there were no areas showing "significant puddles."

On the question of a second opinion, Sunday River president Dan Seme said Coleman was to have obtained another letter, but hadn't been able to schedule an engineer.

Municipalities protected

Putnam's liability concerns were satisfied by an explanation from Deirdre O'Callaghan, a lawyer for Sunday River.

She said that in the event of personal or property injury, the Maine Tort Claim Act gives municipal officials and towns immunity against liability stemming from municipal approval of a permit or other licensing.

But board member Brian Hanscom was looking beyond liability to the basic issue of safety. "I don't look at it as a lawsuit," he said. "I look at it as people."

Seme said he would "guarantee"

Sunday River engineer Joe Aloisio tried to address the safety concerns. The water running down the road, he said, "doesn't puddle. It runs in a very thin film. We feel we have met the intent (of the ordinance), which is to provide proper drainage."

"And we will sand and salt heavily, because we want to look out for our guests," he said.

From a larger perspective, Aloisio said that new roads typically shift during their first winter anyway, often leaving them out of compliance with town standards.

Seme agreed, noting the poor condition of some older public roads and saying towns don't regrade "every time the roads move."

Hanscom wasn't convinced. "But typically they build them to specs (to begin with)," he said.

He suggested the town get its own engineer to study the situation.

But Putnam said that if the board failed to approve the waiver at the meeting, it would likely put Sunday River in a time bind. It would be difficult, he said, to repave the non-complying road sections this season. (Paving plants were scheduled to close this week.)

Three conditions

The planners eventually agreed to a temporary waiver with three conditions: 1) the second letter from an engineer will be produced by Coleman, before Putnam certifies compliance; 2) the skiway will indemnify the town in the event someone did file a lawsuit (that is, pay a lawyer's fee to file for dismissal of the suit based on the tort law); 3) the board will review the safety of the road next spring.

Seme said he would "guarantee" the board will get the second engineer's letter.

Regarding the review, O'Callaghan asked the board not to tie it to bringing the road to town standards because, she said, there may be other ways of ensuring safety without necessarily meeting town standards.

Rather, she suggested, Sunday River would have to satisfy the board itself of the road's safety.

The waiver will also "sunset" on Sept. 1 of 1998 -- after which, said O'Callaghan, Sunday River "cannot convey property, if you're not satisfied (the road) is safe."

Putnam said he thought the conditional waiver was the best the board could do, short of stopping the project. He said he would be satisfied with the waiver, if the road is later reviewed with the town "sitting in the driver's seat."

The vote to approve the waiver was unanimous.

Skiway concedes on guardrails

Sunday River also agreed to place 7,300 feet of metal guardrail along the road. The resort originally wanted to use boulders to prevent cars from going off the road. But Putnam said they did not meet MDOT standards, as required by ordinance, and were not as safe. The guardrail is estimated to cost between $75,000 and $80,000.

The board did approve a waiver for boulders to be used on a short stretch of road, as well as on the internal access road at the hotel itself.

Other waivers were granted regarding the placement of three CMP poles and the alignment of several culverts.

(The reporter is married to Sunday River engineer Joe Aloisio.)

sonality of ASC business, the high degree to which the company is leveraged, and "the fact that it's largely a real estate play, and in resort real estate at that."

"We had an interesting response to this," Hirshon said. "A lot of the people who bought stock on the deal were people who ski there and like the management style."

Ottens ceremoniously rang the closing bell to signal the end of last Thursday's trading.

He said of his company's first day in the market: "It's great to be public."

Beyond that, company officials are saying little, since the "quiet period" imposed by the Securities and Exchange Commission continues until 30 days after a new stock begins trading.

financial situation.

Nothing further was said formally until last week, when employees received their pay checks and found Ottens's letter.

There will be bonuses, he wrote, though unlike years past -- and probably years future -- they will be calculated on the basis of the number of years an employee has worked at Sunday River.

"In this manner," Ottens wrote, "I am able to reward those employees who have helped to grow the company over the years."

"We still have a lot of work to do," he concluded. "Work hard, Work smart, always be on the lookout for new and better ways to get things done. I am tremendously proud of you, and I look forward to working with you for many years to come."

Seasons change; life changes but people don't. Fred and I took our Sunday drive toward Errol, N.H. Along the way we discussed what is happening to our hometown and why. We came up with theories of our own and what to do for remedies. This subject may only be appropriate for mature audiences, so reader beware. Has anybody noticed the influx of population from states and counties to the south? I have no problem with this except that often people escape a lifestyle of too many people, too much traffic, too much crime and too much money only to relocate and bring along the baggage from the past place.

Did anyone ever in their wildest dreams think we would have a Rite Aid or Java or Bagel or Cafe in our midst? Bethel is a tiny New England town and I love her for it. Do we need to have a big mall, or "anchor store" or exotic food here in Bethel? Will any of these things make Bethel a better place to live? Will any of these things survive without more people? Where do we draw the line? Do we need more laws to slow growth or do we open the doors wide and let it rip?

Wouldn't it be great to have more to draw people than a seasonal "big business"? How do we draw other kinds of business to Bethel? Do we try another Gamm or another Bethel Station? People need to speak out about these issues or the bigger, richer companies will push their way into our lives and feed from our hearts and develop our land, and we as taxpayers will be faced with higher taxes and less land to enjoy. Fred has me really worried because he has seen the destruction of other communities that once were as small and innocent as Bethel.

I don't know the answers but would like to see a study of other places which have successfully dealt with growth and the economy and lifestyles of the people caught up in the middle.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Nov. 3, for a regular meeting with 18 members present. The charter was draped for Verna Swan. Reports were given and people were urged to vote on Tuesday. It was reported the Elden Hathaway Memorial Dance, to benefit the library fund, would be held on Nov. 15 at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills, with Richard Felt's band and Michael Hathaway furnishing the music. It was voted to let the library use the hall for a Christmas Sale in December. Six people were reported on. The program was as follows: opening thoughts, "God thank you for our freedom" by Bertha Benoit; song by all, "God Bless America"; A patriotic wish was read by Richard Felt; song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by all; Milton Mills received his 55-year certificate. Russell Yates gave the State Grange report (He and Peggy were delegates to the State Grange); Olive Risko had a reading about the Liberty Bell; reading, Stars and Stripes by Bertha Benoit; Happy Birthday was sung to Robert Day; a candle-lighting ceremony with readings; and everyone sang "Let There Be Peace On Earth." The Historical Society has contacts with other organizations around the state. It tries to keep informed of significant developments. Everyone is encouraged to become a society member and help out. Dues are modest and benefits are very real. Your contribution to the community and area could be significant.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

I spent two days recently in Rumford for medical reasons. Mrs. "Buzzie" Lapham and several members of her family were recent visitors of Bill and Phyllis Bancroft. She also spent a day in Lewiston recently with Mrs. Gladys Grenier.

Central Maine Power Company crews are winding down their work on Route 5 along the shore of Songo Pond, cutting and trimming a lot of trees, setting new poles, and stringing new wire to replace the old line that previously went up through the woods. Hopefully we won't lose power so many times in storms.

A sharp thunder and lightning storm startled our area Tuesday evening, followed Wednesday evening by the earthquake centered in Quebec.

WE HELP YOU JUGGLE

Today, many adults have to be in two places at once, fulfilling commitments to work and family. Then, someone gets sick. Mountain Health Services has extended our office hours into late afternoons to help patients schedule appointments for care at convenient hours.

All of our healthcare providers select certain days each month to be available for late afternoon appointments. This ensures your appointment with your primary care provider. For emergencies or same-day appointments we arrange for you to see the first available provider if your primary care provider is not available.

The heavy rains of last weekend flooded many brooks and streams in this area, and raised the level of the pond.

Last Saturday with the Salways I went to Old Orchard Beach to visit with Brandon and Tara and get acquainted with little Kyle, my new great-grandson -- what a doll.

Mrs. Winona Verrill of South Paris has visited with Mrs. Elmira Joyen a couple of times recently.

A large number of Albany residents turned out to vote at the town House on Tuesday.

Recent visitors here have been Rev. Jean Bass, Mrs. Mary Keniston, the A.H.H. nurse, and Mrs. Ethel Turner of Otisfield.

Procrastination is like a credit card; it's a lot of fun until you get the bill. Readers Digest.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. How are you today? It looks like a real frosty one out there this morning. One day last week Loretta Andrews, the East Stoneham Church Thrift Shop manager, and Darlene Dunn packed up some boxes and bags of warm winter clothing and shoes and boots from the Stoneham Church Thrift Shop and contacted Rev. Ken Turley of the Fryeburg New Church that was collecting for and to commemorate Columbus Day.

These boxes and bags of clothing, shoes and boots, and food were delivered by covered pickup trucks to the Indian Reservation day-care center at Princeton, which is near Calais. It is good to know that these things will be used and not just thrown away. We can't keep clothing over the winter here as there is no heat in the little thrift shop room and things get damp and musty.

Cathy Farely from Bernard visited with Dick and Marilyn Jones a few days recently.

On Halloween night, the party at the Lovell Fire Station was a huge success with over a hundred people going through the so-called haunted house. It was quite scary I heard but everyone had a good time. We had nine trick-or-treaters here. The kids looked good in their costumes and we enjoy seeing them. Now -- what do we do with the leftover candy?

On Tuesday, Nov. 4, again Phyllis Adams and Eleanor Nelson were ballot clerks at the Stoneham voting booths. We were quite pleased to see so many people who got out and voted. Out of 194 registered voters, we had 95 show up, which was good. You wouldn't believe how fast the time goes really. Ralph and Harriett Brown brought us a nice, hot pizza for lunch. Thanks, Ralph and Harriett. It's always good and appreciated. We were in total dark at one point while counting the ballots when the electrical power went off during the thunderstorm in the evening but it came right back on. It was a fun day.

Remember, the East Stoneham Church meeting is on Nov. 19. Oh yes, I was going to mention the pretty twirlies at a place on the way to Norway. These are a little different and are made from a pipe and jointed and painted. They are real bright and pretty and are called "Wind driven expressions" by Roberta. Of course, we had to buy one.

The play -- the "Old Peabody Pew" -- will be presented at 7 p.m. at the North Waterford Church on Friday, Nov. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert McAllister have gone to Virginia to be with their daughter and family a few days. Frances Grant is tending his pretty little calf while they are gone.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley
Remember the public supper on Saturday, Nov. 15, at 5:30 p.m. at the Grange Hall sponsored by the Newry Mothers Club to raise money for the graduation gifts to the scholars, also for other children's affairs. Cost: $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. The menu will be home-baked beans and American chop suey, also hot dogs, etc., drinks, pies, pies, etc. There will be a 50/50 drawing and plenty of good, friendly get-together. Come one, come all. Thank you.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Bea

Lowell and Doris Parent, all members of the Newry Bowling Gang, went to Rumbold at the Oxford Lanes to do some bowling for fun. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles with one string of 101, she also was high on the triples. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on the singles, beating Bea by one pin. She also was high on the triples beating Bea again by eight pins this time. Karlene had one strike and two spares, Betsy had three spares, Gil had two spares, and Eleanor had one spare. All went to lunch at Sam's and then did some shopping.

Who was that, going down the river in a canoe, with a beautiful white dog. It was Polly Mahoney of the Mahoosuc Guide Service. It was on the "Made in Maine" program on Channel 10 Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday night at 7 p.m. Better watch it, Polly. I saw that white dog give you a kiss! Polly had some friends with her who were doing some camping and canoeing. Go for it, Polly, it's a great life, made in Maine.

Wednesday, Nov. 19, is Newry Recreation Committee's Annual Ski Rental Night from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Newry Town Office for students (and parents) living in Newry and attending SAD44 schools. For more information, call Bonnie at 824-3642.

Mason Township

by Richard Grover
Mason is usually pretty quiet, but Halloween sometimes brings a little action. Why, this Halloween, our card game at the Thayers was interrupted by two families of trick-or-treaters. Little 2-year-old Colin Williams, accompanied by his parents, Jeff and Serena, arrived about 7:30 p.m. They were followed shortly thereafter by Dan Grover, escorting his daughters Lydia and Martha and their friends Toki and Snake (a.k.a. Keith Chadborn).

On Saturday evening, Nov. 1, Nancy Grover turned the tables on Ina, who is noted for whipping up some sumptuous home-cooked meals for hordes of people at a moment's notice. Nancy and Dan's family hosted a family birthday dinner celebration in Ina's honor.

(She says she is at least 39). Ina always used to go hunting, and often bagged her deer on her birthday; this year it fell on Sunday, so the deer will have to wait.

On Sunday, Dewey and Verna Thayer were pleased when their daughter-in-law, Cindy Thayer, with her son Daren and daughter Tracyn, spent the day in Mason. Tracyn had flown to Maine from South Carolina to surprise her mother on her (Cindy) 50th birthday. This was the first time Tracyn had been to Maine since completing the grueling 300-mile ECO challenge race in Australia this past August. Tracyn and her team Red Wolf finished 11 out of 45 international teams, the first team not from Australia or New Zealand to finish. Tracyn is Verna and Dewey's only granddaughter, so they are some proud of her.

Now for the real news from Mason. In the past two or three weeks, or so, Rupert has torn down his old "duck house" by the blackberry patch in front of the barn. This venerable shack, recently included in the "National Registry of Historic Buildings," was determined to be beyond economic repair, since no worthy buyer could be found who would restore it to its former architectural majesty. Now, its rotting floorboards, sinking corner posts and rusted roof tin have been relegated forever to the trash heap.

But all is not lost. This picturesque old structure has been replaced by a gleaming new shed, complete with reinforced concrete floor, 2-x-6 wall studs and a shining new steel roof. It even has a front door opening wide enough to accommodate all manner of lawn tractors and gardening equipment.

Alas, the new shed lacked the history and fond memories of the old one: days of pheasant flocks, woodchuck holes and sharp-toothed beaver traps. But these are the subject of future issues. You'll just have to keep reading The Citizen to get the rest of the stories.

The annual fall sale at the Universalist Church Goodwill Hall last Saturday proved to be quite successful. Thanks to every-

And the Hunters and Family Breakfast on Saturday at the Historical Society building was also successful with the best turnout than ever before.

The next meeting of the society will be on Monday, the 17th with a potluck supper preceding.

The annual chicken pie supper will be on Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Universalist Church. The first setting will be at 5:30 p.m.

Joyce and Wendy Lamb were at the home of Peggy Lamb and John Beane in Palermo. They were celebrating November birthdays. Judy Lamb from Bar Harbor was also present.

Six "retired women" of the craft group had lunch at the Bull Ring restaurant. Those present were Limpie Cyr, Edith Morey, Joyce and Cynthia Lamb, Virginia Hyam and Miriam Inman. Joy Gasta also joined us.

Much sympathy is extended to the family of Robert Silver due to his death.

Louvie Coffin has returned to her home.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

Some people ask, "What fun do you get from walking the same old places." I have found walks are different for every country path however familiar has its daily or moment-to-moment variety. The light that we see is different from what it was a few moments ago. Colors change, light changes, shadows change. Until you take walks the magic of it remains a mystery. Try it. It's a psychological holiday. Now that I can't walk very much I miss it a lot.

November is here with its nippy air. The woods are full of light, the view is wider, branches are bare.

When I was out I could hear the brooks talking and the wind playing in the pines.

I watched a crow go winging past. It seemed darker in color than in summer, perhaps because of the darkness of the trees.

The sumac candles glowed in bunches by the roadside, a scene I have seen many times but still enjoyable. I was happy with my short stroll in the peace of the valley.

Eleanor has been visiting relatives and friends this week while Milton is on a hunting vacation.

It doesn't seem true that Halloween came and went so quickly. There were several ghosts and goblins that visited me and I was happy to see them in their strange costumes.

Charlene Cash wants to give a special thank you to Kris Miclon for putting on a birthday party for Charlene's daughter, Crystal. The party will be combination party for both Crystal and Amanda Miclon, who is also celebrating her birthday this month. Amanda will be 14 on the 11th and Crystal will be 15 on the 15th. Both girls are in the eighth grade at Telstar Middle School. The party will be held at Kris Miclon's home and both girls are aware of the party and are looking forward to having a good time and friends in. Happy Birthday to both Crystal and Amanda.

Charlene Cash is working at the Sheriff's Office in South Paris as a corrections officer. She has been working there since August and works mostly full-time right now.

Tommy Poland is sporting a new car. It's very nice looking and I'm sure she'll enjoy it.

I went to the town office on Monday to have my flu shot. I've been putting it off, as I don't care for shots -- who does -- but I finally made it.

I also went to the town office to vote on Tuesday. I hope everyone who can vote did the same. I rarely miss voting and like to keep up on things that are going on in this state and communities as much as I can.

Rick Wing is headed for Nogales, Ariz., this weekend on a job he is taking part in on the U.S. border. He will be gone several days and is in hopes to visit some relatives in Tempe, Ariz., while he's there.

Kellie Record stopped by for a short visit on Sunday. She also went to visit Sheila Verrill, who is ill, to see how she's coming along. Hope you're better soon, Sheila.

NOTICE: The annual meeting of Project Opportunity, Inc. will be held in conjunction with its regular Board of Directors meeting on Tuesday, November 25, 1997 at 4 pm at Telstar High School in the Principal's conference room.

BLOOD DRIVE AT GOULD

Gould Academy will host a blood drive on Tuesday, Nov. 18, from 12 to 5 p.m. in the Bingham Gymnasium.

To meet the need for blood in central and northern New England, the American Red Cross must receive nearly 330,000 donations yearly. Because each unit of donated blood is separated into several components, a single donation can help to save as many as four lives.

The goal for the Bethel community blood drive is 85 pints of donated blood. According to Gould Academy school nurse Pat Donovan, the communities in the Bethel area can be proud of the fact that the annual fall blood drive has typically surpassed that goal, and she is hoping for a similar show of support this fall.

Donors must be 18 years of age or over (17 with a signed American Red Cross parental/guardian consent form), in general good health, and weigh at least 110 pounds. Although walk-in donors are welcome, appointments are preferred and can be made by calling Pat Donovan or Debbie Dennis at 824-7733.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE FOR ANDOVER ADULTS

The Andover Educational Fund and SAD44 Adult Education will host a free informational evening on Tuesday, Nov. 18, at the Andover Library from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on the topic of adult scholarship opportunities provided by the Andover Educational Fund.

Scholarship support for up to two courses per semester in job-related training programs or college degree programs is available for adult residents of Andover through the fund. SAD44 Adult Education is working in partnership with the fund to provide interested applicants with career advice and college preparation work.

The Andover scholarship program is unique in that funding is available for all types of job-related education or training, including associates or bachelors degree programs and non-degree programs such as truck driving or CNA. Eligible individuals must have resided in Andover for three years prior to application.

Presenters at the Nov. 18 meeting will include Cathy Newell, SAD44 director of Adult Education; Merrill Bittner, Adult guidance counselor for SAD44 Adult Education, and Andover Educational Fund president Sharon Hutchins. For those unable to attend the meeting, information regarding the adult scholarships is available by calling 824-2780.

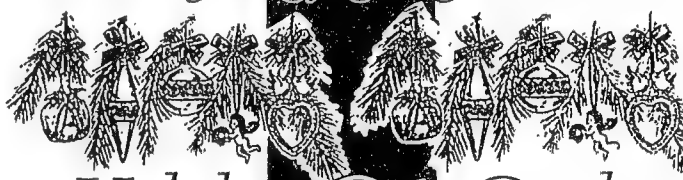

MAISAD CHAMPIONS—Megan Paquette of Bethel wrestles the ball from a Wayne player in the final game of the Maine Association of Independent Schools' Varsity Field Hockey Tournament. The game entered overtime tied at 1-1. After two overtime periods, the tie was broken by a series of one-on-one shoot-outs, in which Gould shooters and goalie Amanda Barrett of Mexico prevailed, hanging on for a 4-2 win. A regular season record of 7-2-2, plus wins in both tournament games, gave Gould a berth in the New England Prep School finals. Ranked sixth, Gould took on third-ranked Kimball Union Academy in Wednesday's quarterfinal match at Holderness School in Plymouth, N.H.

'Alibis' at Telstar

The Telstar High School Drama Club will present "Alibis," a comedy by Peter Kennedy, on Nov. 20 and 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Helen Berry Auditorium.

Various "Death By Chocolate" confections will be sold during intermission. Admission is free, but donations are gratefully accepted. The audience can expect an evening of murderous mayhem and fun for the whole family.

Jane A. Lowe

JOINS NORWAY SAVINGS

Jane A. Lowe has joined Norway Savings Bank as branch manager and vice president for its Bethel Office.

Lowe has over 20 years of banking experience, including collections, residential and commercial lending. She recently was an assistant vice president for Northeast Bank, where she worked since 1984. Her education and training include a degree from Mid State Business School, and course work through the American Institute of Banking.

The Bethel office of Norway Savings Bank opened in December 1996. The addition of Lowe will help service the loan demand in the Bethel area. Her concentration will be in the consumer and mortgage loan areas. H. Neal Graffam, former branch manager, will now be able to devote full time to his role as vice president of commercial lending for the Bethel region.

Lowe resides in Bethel. She has two daughters; Monica is a freshman in college and Carrie is a sophomore in high school.

This week at the

Moses Mason House

Nearly one-hundred members and guests attended the November monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held Thursday evening in the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room to hear a panel discuss the life and writings of Louise Dickinson Rich. Mrs. Rich, a former Massachusetts teacher, wrote of her world in the wilds between Lower Richardson and Umbagog lakes. From her home on Rapid River, she discussed scenes of living among wild animals with few human contacts. Her first book, "We Took to the Woods" (1942), became a best seller and was chosen as a Book-of-the-Month selection. Her two subsequent books about life on Rapid River, "Happy the Land" (1946) and "My Neck of the Woods" (1950) also were popular with readers.

The panel consisted of Jane Rich (her former daughter-in-law), Alice Arlen (her biographer), Ernest Angevine (who lived with the Riches in Upton), Eric Wight (retired game warden who works at Lakewood Camps near where Mrs. Rich lived), Sylvia Wight (niece of James Barnett, Mrs. Rich's second husband), Alys Parsons (one of Mrs. Rich's best friends, who with her husband once operated Lakewood Camps), and Aldro French (owner of Mrs. Rich's former homes, Forest Lodge and the Winter Camp). Several panelists commented on Mrs. Rich's ability to describe scenes and provide the reader with some sense of what she was observing at the time. Also noted were her natural abilities as a born storyteller. In some cases, she changed names and details, but the public loved her books and some of them are still being reprinted. In a war-weary world, many Americans found her books discussing nature and survival in the forest striking just the right note. It was a relaxing and entertaining experience to join Mrs. Rich on her many adventures that she recorded for her readers.

In the 1950s, Mrs. Rich, who died in 1991 at the age of 87, moved to the Maine coast where she also wrote more books (22 during her lifetime), but chose to have her ashes scattered along Rapid River in the region she so loved.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Walter Hatch announced that the next monthly meeting would be held on Dec. 4 and feature the annual "Christmas with the Masons." The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a crystal bowl given to Ethel Bisbee in 1923 by her fellow teachers at the time of her marriage. This was the gift of Florine Bowden. President Hatch urged anyone interested to attend the Community Conference on Nov. 15.

Refreshments for the evening were discussed by Persis Post, all of which contained pumpkin.

COMMUNITY KID'S PROGRAM TO FORM BOARD

All interested people are invited to the next meeting of the Inter-generational Committee to learn about the Community Kid's Program and to join the efforts underway to provide school-age care programs for children in SAD44.

The meeting will be at 7:30 a.m. on Nov. 20 at the Bethel Alliance Church. The committee is seeking interested parents and any at-large members of SAD44 communities to serve on the Board of Directors of the Community Kid's Program. Board members will be elected at the Nov. 20 meeting. The meeting agenda also includes an update on after-school programs for middle school students.

The Community Kid's Program committee recently completed a survey of the SAD44 communities to determine the need for before- and after-school care programs for elementary school children. A questionnaire was sent home with all elementary students in SAD44 to assess the need and interest in school-age child care and enrichment programs. Preliminary analysis of the responses indicate strong interest in such programs, particularly for the after-school hours. For more information about the results of the survey and the Community Kid's Program, contact Meg Steven at 824-4280.

The Community Kid's Program committee is a part of the larger Inter-generational Committee which was formed as a result of the last Bethel Leaders forum. The Inter-generational Committee has been meeting monthly to explore ways to provide activities for community members of all ages, with the ultimate goal of linking activities when possible to bring the generations together for shared experiences.

GOULD ALUMNI

Eighteen members of the Gould Academy Alumni Association Board, including local members Polly Davis '45, secretary; Alberta Merrill '51, treasurer; and Barbara Merrill-Lapham '55, gathered in Stratham, N.H., at the home of Peter Thurston '75 to review Reunion Weekend '97 and make plans for 1997-98 events.

The first event on the calendar, "Gould at the Pops," takes place on Saturday, Dec. 20, at the Whittemore Center in Durham, N.H., for the Boston Pops Holiday Concert. Marguerite Graham, Gould director of alumni relations, reports that tickets are selling quickly with 10 remaining. To reserve tickets, please call the Gould Academy alumni office at 824-7707.

Other upcoming events will include two Young Alumni Gatherings in the early spring (Portland and Boston) as well as the G.A.A.A. Senior Gala for the Class of '98 at the home of Tedd Brown '85 in Gilead. In June, the association will reserve tickets to a Sea Dogs' game, and on July 25, the board will sponsor a cruise on Casco Bay. The events of the year culminate in Alumni Reunion celebrations on the weekend of Sept. 26. For more information on these or other events, please call Marguerite Graham at the Gould alumni office or access the "Special Events" section of the Gould Web Page at www.gouldacademy.org.

FINNISH-AMERICAN SOCIETY TO HOST OPEN HOUSE

The Finnish-American Heritage Society of Maine will hold an Open House on Sunday, Nov. 16, at 2 p.m. to welcome the community to the opening of the new museum in West Paris.

Following a brief business meeting the family of the late Nestor Tamminen will present a program on the Finnish Coop which he managed for many years. The new museum will be officially open for the first time and a coffee social will follow.

WATERFORD HISTORICAL

The Waterford Historical Society will meet on Thursday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. at the Wilkins Community House in Waterford Flat.

All are invited to share favorite hunting stories, Thanksgiving traditions or family recipes.

Such oral traditions are essential to local history. A potluck dessert will follow the program.

From the Jackson-Silver Aux.

With some Junior Auxiliary members leading the Pledge of Allegiance and singing of our National Anthem by the assembled members of Legion and Auxiliary, the 13th annual music program was underway on Nov. 6.

Mary Lyon has been the Unit's chairman all this time and each year she has planned and researched a music program with a patriotic theme. One time it featured songs of the branches of the military, another was based on The American's Creed, one on nurses and medics in the military. Last year's program was built around the Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary. This time it started with a recap of what was happening in Europe in the mid to late 1930s and how a gentleman born in Russia who came to the U.S. at age five, wrote one of our most beloved songs. Irving Berlin wrote "God Bless America" and it was introduced in 1938 by Kate Smith, with the first line of the verse -- "While the storm clouds gather far across the sea," -- expressing what was going on at the time.

With Sylvia Dunham as M.C., the program continued with members of the audience taking part by breaking down the words of the song into its lines and giving their impressions of each line's meaning and significance for citizens today. At times throughout the program all joined in singing, "This Land Is Your Land," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Land of Hope and Glory," and "Thank You America." At one point all joined in reciting "The American's Creed" and Cathryn Lovejoy then sang it in a solo as put to music by Hugo Whey. The program ended with all joining hands to once more sing "God Bless America."

Due to vision problems, Mrs. Lyon expressed a wish to retire from presenting these programs, and the Post and Unit responded by presenting her with a basket of flowers in appreciation for her long years of such service.

After refreshments of cake and coffee the Post and Unit went to their respective meetings.

It was learned that the Junior Auxiliary members have recently made tray favors for Halloween at the South Paris Veterans Home and will make more for Veterans Day, Thanksgiving, and New Year's Eve.

Unit president Evanna Davis showed members a project which the Auxiliary is working on this year for the Children and Youth program and help was lined up for events coming up in the next week: Veteran's Day program, luncheons for Bethel Senior Citizens and Oxford County Retired teachers, and representation to the Community Conference as well as cooking for the Senior Citizens dinner being served Nov. 16 by the National Honor Society at Telstar.

The next meeting is Nov. 20 at 7 p.m.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL

The Greenwood Historical Society met Nov. 5 at the historical building in Locke Mills with 28 members present.

Mansfield and Georgia Packard donated a projector, table, screen and slides. Program for the evening was a report on Aircraft Carriers by John Davis. Refreshments were served by Edith Morey and Margaret Mills. Blaine Mills reported doing much work in the dark room and is doing some work for Bethel as well.

The next meeting will be the annual Potluck Supper at 6 p.m. Everyone should bring utensils, favorite dish and wrapped gift (unmarked) to be auctioned by Ellsworth Hathaway, auctioneer.

RUMFORD POINT SUPPER

The Women's Fellowship of the Rumford Point Church will sponsor a public turkey supper and holiday mini-fair on Saturday, Nov. 15.

Both events will take place in the church fellowship room from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

The dinner will consist of turkey, gravy, stuffing, mashed potato, vegetables, rolls, coffee and homemade pies.

Cost of the meal is $6 for adults, $3 for children five to 10, and free to children under 5.

The holiday mini-fair will include jewelry, fancy work, knit goods and decorations. A 50/50 raffle will also be offered and will be drawn at the close of the event.
